

The Consulate General of Japan at Denver & Japan America Society of Colorado

are proud to present:

Japan's Energy Future Crossroads

Thursday, October 27 (Denver) & Friday, October 28 (Fort Collins)

The tragic events of March 11th pushed Japan's energy issues to the forefront of social and economic life in Japan. The urgency and immediacy of Japan's peak energy shortage is driving innovation and implementation at a speed that will have profound global impact.

Energy engineer-journalist Dan Bihn will present his preliminary results from his fact-finding trip to Japan (including Fukushima) in the summer of 2011. Dan believes that Japan's energy future is at a crossroads, with a shift to smart energy as a key option. Should Japan choose this option, there may be a role for Colorado companies to play, and that businesses participating in Colorado's New Energy Economy can't afford to ignore the dramatic changes now taking place in Japan.

Sign up today for this fascinating and informative program, which will also feature a panel discussion by experts including Hiromoto Oyama, Deputy Consul General of Japan at Denver, Former Governor Bill Ritter (Denver program), Dr. Bryan Willson, CSU Professor, and Director, Clean Energy Supercluster (Fort Collins program), Hiroto Ito, COO of American Zephyr, and Tom Binet, Director of Trade & Investment for the Asia-Pacific at the Colorado Office of Economic Development & International Trade.
